Institute of Social Research and Cultural Studies, PhD Degree

Academic Year 2023

Minimum Term of Study	2 years
Required Credits	24 credits
Required Credits for Joint MA/PhD program	48 credits (including MA credits; not including foreign language credits)
Curriculum and Regulations	1. Required courses include: a total of 6 credits from “Introduction to Cultural Theories” and “Independent Study”

“Independent Study”(3 required credits in total) is conducted on one-on-one advising sessions tailormade to students’ research areas and dissertation projects, in collaboration with faculty advisors or appropriate professorial instructors of related area of expertise. The credits “Introduction to Cultural Studies” in their Master’s program can be substituted for equivalent credits of the area of study Social and Cultural Theory.

A non-Chinese speaking international student may select “Introduction to Inter-Asia Cultural Studies” (English-medium course) or other SRCS-accredited courses as alternatives to the required courses. If an international student completes both “Introduction to Inter-Asia Cultural Studies” and “Introduction to Cultural Theories”, the extra credits taken will be counted towards elective requirements.

A non-Chinese speaking international student may also select “Thesis Writing and Methodology” (English-medium course) of the Inter-Asia Cultural Studies Program of the University System of Taiwan or other NYCU courses related to English thesis writing as an alternative to “Pro-seminar.”

2. Required Selective Courses: 6 credits from the course group “Social and Cultural Theories.”

3. Elective courses: to fulfill their research needs, students must complete a minimum of 9 credits elective courses among Social and Cultural Theory and other fields of study. Upon approval by advisor(s), mentor (only applicable to students without established advisor-student relations), or the SRCS Director, auxiliary courses or courses of other departments and schools accredited by the SRCS shall be eligible for credit transfer and counted towards degree requirements (a maximum of 9 credits).

1. To demonstrate proficiency in a second foreign language other than English, Mandarin Chinese-speaking students shall fulfill one of the three requirements:

- i. To complete a second foreign language coursework in two academic years accumulatively; or
- ii. To obtain a qualification equal or superior to beginner level from a SRCS-accredited language proficiency examination (for example, the foreign language examinations held by NYCU, the Japan Interchange Association, the Goethe-Institute and the Alliance Francaise); or
- iii. To hire two professional instructors to evaluate the student’s oral or reading competence level, where the evaluation result shall serve as a substitution for a second foreign language coursework.

2. Non-Mandarin Chinese speaking foreign students may define their first and second foreign languages. To be qualified for application for the dissertation oral examination, students shall provide language proficiency test results or certificates of completing language coursework. Relevant copies of the certificates may also be submitted to the SRCS office upon acquisition.
